WARSAW SAYS

Double Drive Shatters Russ Lines.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

WARSAW, Aug. 18.—The Polish industry is so pleased with progress in armistice in the last three days representatives of the general

today expressed the belief that the Polish will be termined on Sunday night.

It is not only that the bolsheviks will be driven from Polish territories in the next five days, but that a single bolshevik will be permitted to escape.

Two Big Movements.

"Good heavens," the German exclaimed, in good English, "why all this excitement about a treaty which doesn't exist?

"The treaty doesn't exist, I regret to say. I wish that it did exist. Why shouldn't we have an agreement to take over Russia's broken down economic structure and rebuild and reconstruct the country?

"Let me tell you this: Europe cannot exist without Russia. We have realized it for a long time. Mr. Lloyd George is realizing it now. France will realize it some day. Without Russia, Europe's present bad state will grow worse; with Russia, Europe can save itself from starvation, economic collapse and chaos.

mediately. The Germans, who were foremost in Russia before the war, are best equipped for that. I hope that as soon as possible Germany will come

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—"German industry favors an immediate treaty with the Russian soviets. German industry laughs at the danger of Bolshevism spreading over Europe. German industry believes that the high cost of living the world over will fall when Russia's enormous supply of raw material is brought to the world's markets."

This opinion is from a man fully entitled to speak for Germany—

Councilor Felix Deutsch of Europe's largest electrical manufacturing establishment, "The Universal Electric company," and government advisor at the Spa conference. He is also an expert on Russia because before the war he operated works there employing 7,000 men. When I mentioned a secret Russo-German treaty, Herr

Deutsch banged his fist on the table.

Regrets There Is No Treaty.

"Good heavens," the German exclaimed, in good English, "why all

this excitement about a treaty which

doesn't exist?

"The treaty doesn't exist, I regret politically and commercially."

Red Peril? "Nonsense."

I asked Herr Deutsch, if he feared the spread of bolshevism following the world's resumption of relations with Russia.

"Nonsense," the councillor exclaimed.

"We German industrialists who border on Russia are not afraid, so why should the outside world be. We must recognize that the soviet republic is a fact and is two and a half years old. Personally, I believe that behind the bolsheviks is the old military oligarchy, but even if bolshevism remains, it is possible for us to reorganize the economic life and reopen trade relations without bolshevism

overturning us."

Russia Has Everything."

"You really believe that Russia's enormous raw materials are ready for the market?"

"Russia is not a nation, it is a continent. Like the United States, it has everything, only in bigger quantities.

Rich minerals are awaiting transportation. We realize that the Russian peoples are not raising much food, but as soon as we offer them manufactured goods, they will produce. The whole world is complaining because of the high cost of living, but few realize the reason for it. We have lost 20,- 000,000 producers. We have wasted five years. We have blockaded the world's richest country. After five years' destruction we refuse to begin again reconstruction in Russia—is it foolish?"

SHANGHAI, Aug. 17.—Robbery

in the strong room of the shipman of the liner "Danzig" took place

when the vessel was at anchor in the harbor.

The passengers were detained and all baggage was searched,

but the gold was not recovered, and no clue to the robbers was found.

Search of the Chinese crew and the passengers, however, revealed $10,000

United States gold currency, which available here.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Terence Mac

Sweeney, lord mayor of Cork, arrived cort, having been deported from Ireland under a court martial sentence.

He has been lodged in prison. The lord mayor was still on hunger strike and

RESCUE FOUR IN BOAT ADRIFT ON HIGH LAKE WAVES

2 Men, 2 Women Saved
in Squall.

Two men and two women were rescued last night after fighting against the high waves in the power boat Venture, a forty-five foot raised deck crusier, which became disabled from engine trouble while in the lake off</p up roar. Suffragists clamored for recognition, while a second of "second the motion" came from the anti's. Mr. Overton, however, refused to recognize anyone and ordered the roll called. The result was in doubt on unofficial tallies. An appeal to the clerk developed that his tally also showed a tie, 45 to 45.

The excitement increased. Members left their seats and crowded around the speaker's stand, many demanding another roll call.

Mr. Overton ordered a second roll call, which showed a tie of 48 to 48, and the speaker declared the motion lost for want of a majority.

Instantly the anti-suffragists demanded a vote on the original motion to censure in the senate action. If another tie resulted it meant rejection of the amendment. When the speaker put the motion hundreds of suffragists regarded the battle as lost.

"Antis" Are Downcast.

The vote at the outset was on partisan lines, but when the name of Representative Harry T. Burn, Republican, of McMinn county, was called, he voted "aye." The opposition then virtually conceded defeat, for Mr. Burn had voted with them to table the resolution and his change gave the suffragists the needed majority.

The stand of other members was unchanged until the name of Representative B. P. Turner, Democrat, of Gibson county, was reached and he passed.

Instantly there was a shout of satisfaction from the antis. He had voted against the motion to table and his failure to vote again balanced the opposing forces, but just before the end of the roll call, Mr. Turner requested the clerk to record him as voting "aye."

Women Cheer Victory.

Women screamed at the top of their voices, scores placed their arms around the necks of those nearest them and danced, so far as it was possible to do so in the mass of humanity. Hundreds of suffrage banners were waved wildly. Women waved the yellow banners that had been waving and threw them upward to meet a similar shower from the galleries.

There were few tears of joy by the suffragists. Some wiped their eyes, but on the whole they considered it no time for weeping. Their happiness was far beyond that stage.

A motion to adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning was offered. The speaker announced that the motion had carried unanimously.

Basics for New Attack.

The announced intention to attack the legality of ratification if the house failed to resolve the action was the subject of conferences tonight between the suffragists leaders and between leaders of the opposition. The clause of the Tennessee constitution upon which would be based the test in the courts is Article 2, Section 32. It follows:

"No convention or general assembly of this state shall act upon any amendment of the constitution of the United States proposed by congress to the several states unless such convention or general assembly shall have been elected after such amendment is submitted."

The present legislature was elected in November, 1918, and the suffrage amendment was not submitted to the state until months afterwards.

New Big Parties Voted.

The party lineup upon the vote in the Tennessee house today on the resolution to ratify the federal suffrage amendment was as follows:

Democrats—Aye, 35; nay, 34; absent, 1. Republicans—Aye, 15; nay, 12; absent, 2.

The lineup in the senate last Friday was:

Democrats—Aye, 15; nay, 3. Republicans—Aye, 7; nay, 1.

Dead in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 18.—Suffrage supporters were unable to obtain a reconsideration today of the vote which yesterday tabled the resolution ratifying the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The upper house of the North Carolina legislature adjourned at 1 o'clock, and under its rules the question cannot come before it again except through favorable action of the lower house.

The ratification of the resolution now in house committee will be reported out and made a special order of business tomorrow morning. Representatives Neal C. Grimes and his colleagues, claimed to have 70 of the 120 lower house members pledged against suffrage.

Will H. Hays Gratified

New York, Aug. 18.—Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, on his arrival here late today from Tennessee, made a statement expressing gratitude of his party to the Tennessee legislature for its passage of the woman suffrage amendment.

Two Women Who Worked Harder for Suffrage Cause than Any Others.

WOMEN TO VOTE ENTIRE TICKET SEPT. 15, PLAN

Illinois Prepared for Full Suffrage.

Illinois women will vote for every office on the list for the Sept. 15 primaries and in the November election unless something happens to invalidate the final resolution vote of the nineteenth amendment by the Tennessee legislature.

As matters stood at midnight, Illinois women were all set to participate fully in the primaries. The Tennessee house action was considered, politically, to be conclusive. It was deemed by the women in Chicago who have been leaders in the suffrage movement ever since 1913 that the Tennessee action would stand.

The technical parliamentary situation in Tennessee caused by the motion for reconsideration that will go to a roll call in the next thirty-six hours, if pressed, was an element that was held to be of utmost importance from the Chicago and Illinois political standpoint.

Depends on One Man.

As matters stand from a Chicago viewpoint, Tennessee's ratification yesterday extends full suffrage to Illinois women the minute that Secretary Colby issues the required proclamation that the suffrage amendment is ratified. This is understood, Secretary Colby may promulgate the instant that the official certification is made.

Depends on One Man.

HOYNE, CROWE ROW ENDS 3 MORE ELECTION CASES

Judge Attacks Action of Prosecutor.

Three more election fraud cases were swept into the discard yesterday, in the controversy between Chief Justice Robert E. Crowe of the Criminal court and Macay Hoyne, state's attorney. Judge Crowe declared Mr. Hoyne was not acting in good faith, and Mr. Hoyne replied that Judge Crowe's presence in the Criminal court while a candidate for state's attorney was a detriment to the administration of justice.

Seven previous cases, in which judges and clerks of election were charged with vote frauds, have been dismissed after days spent in selecting a jury.

Judge Tolls of Cases.

A brief history of the controversy was offered by Judge Crowe as follows: "The attorney general wrote a letter to me as chief justice of the Criminal court just before the April primary, which letter he gave to the press before he gave it to me stating that in view of the circumstances it ought to be tried at once and asking whether I would not put them down for trial. I replied that I was of the opinion they ought to have been tried the year before and that I would comply with his request."

"Now we began to try some. The state's attorney and the attorney general used up many days in examining jurors and as soon as the jurors were sworn to try the issue and the state's attorney presented his evidence, he then arose and said they did not have sufficient evidence to warrant asking a jury to find the defendants guilty."

"If the state's attorney did not act in good faith in bringing about an indictment, he ought not to drag these cases on for over a year, and merely use them for campaign purposes."

Mr. Hoyne's Reply.

In his reply Mr. Hoyne said: "Despite our objections and requests to have these cases reassigned, Judge

"Bunk" Jones did not alter his course. He still paced the floor. Another hour passed.

"A granddaughter."

And there are six howling good reasons why the triplets, farmed near Murray, are "all smiles."

Before his wife, who is 42, gave birth to triplets, Mrs. Willie Jones, daughter-in-law, was sent for. An hour after arrival of the triplets Mrs. Jones presented "granddaddy" with twins.

Meantime Mrs. Asah Parks, a daughter, had been called in to attend the triplets.

Within ten days the mother and daughter completing the sextet born in the same house within three hours.

Crowe insisted on hearing them himself," said Hoyne. "This fact is evidence because of the half day sessions he is holding and calling other judges to try cases of a different character."

He cited the Graham bank case and declared Assistant State's Attorney Edward Raber had felt that Judge Crowe was prejudiced. He said it was the first bank case lost by Raber in eight years. He also charged the judge with intervening when Chief of Police Garrity was ordered to bring certain papers to the state's attorney in the police investigation and as a result he never got the papers.

There are about thirty of the so-called electors still pending.

Mr. Hoyne ordered them all to be present on his call for this morning and warned the state's attorney to ready to try them.

ready has yielded important results. It has once more put the Poles in possession of the key to the Warsaw defense line, between the Narw and Bug rivers, while the forces advanced toward Miawa, which has reached Tczewianoff, twelve miles to the south of Miawa, will force the Bolsheviks marching toward Plock and Thorn to beat a hasty retreat and consequently reopen the direct railroad line to Prussia.

But the maneuver on the right wing, along the line of Garvolin and Paratchoff, between the Vistula and the Bug, is the more interesting of the two from the strategic viewpoint, because it threatens the communications of the main Bolshevik forces. Swelled by troops freed by the retreat of the front in the Brody region, the movement already has gained rapid headway and driven the Bolsheviks back all along the line toward Brest-Litovsk for distances varying from twenty-five to fifty miles.

Trotzky's an Optimist.

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Polish offensive, so far as the minister of war, today issued a call for volunteers for service on the southern front. The call was issued in the course of an address at an opera house meeting here in honor of Béla Kun, communist leader and former foreign minister of Hungary.

Trotzky's speech was devoted almost entirely to the justification of a series of measures by which he declared France and England had directly and indirectly aided Gen. Baron Wrangel, the anti-bolshevik leader in south Russia. It was greeted with much enthusiasm.

Condemned in Moscow.

Gen. Wrangel's movement is universally condemned here, even among persons not in accord with the new régime. Some who knew him formerly as a courageous leader assure that they have little confidence in his strategic or administrative ability.

It is constantly apparent that there is a growing solidarity of all elements against any foreign intervention.

Wrangel Continued Gains.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 18.—An official communiqué issued Monday from army headquarters of Gen. Baron Wrangel reports further advances against Bolshevik forces in south Russia.

The anti-bolshevik forces claim the capture of a number of villages in the provinces of Taurida and the Don and the crossing of the Donets river in this section.

Cossack troops are said to have revolted against the soviet government and joined forces with Wrangel, who is also reported to have the support of the entire population of the country.

With 50,000 persons on the grounds and 15,000 in the grandstand, "Uncle Joe" was induced to mount an impromptu speakers' stand on the racetrack and start a speech. But the talk he made was a disappointment. He informed Len Small, but he denounced his platform.

Remembers Old Days.

"Len Small," he shouted, shaking his finger at the candidate, "there are two or three things in the platform which you have issued which I don't agree to. But you have been my friend for thirty years and stood by me when I needed your support."

"I had a hell of a time in 1908 when the publishers were after me because I wouldn't take the tariff off of print paper. I compromised after we became I threw him out of the room in the capitol and you were my friend then and I will be your friend now. And if any one doesn't like what I have to say, and I am a candidate for congress myself, then in God's name let him vote for some one else."

Divided on the Ticket.

This declaration the former speaker followed with a statement that he wasn't for all of the candidates on the Thompson-Lundin slate.

Following Mr. Cannon's talk, Mayor Thompson of Chicago was introduced by Len Small as "a man loved and admired by the people of Illinois, who can't be bought, bluffed, or bullied by the commercialized press of Chicago."

The mayor at once attacked Gov. Lowden.

Major Accuses Lowden.

Thompson said that at one time Tim Cusack Truett and the Daily News were against Lowden, "and were lying about him in the way that they have always lied about me. At that time I heard Mr. Lowden make promises and pledges. One was that he would give back to Chicago home rule over its public utilities. I saw Lowden turn his back on the people and crawl on his hands and knees and lick the hands of his defamers. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the Daily News.

"Lowden sold out the people then in violation of his oath of office and later he came with the goods on the platform to buy the presidency of the United States. Too cowardly to run himself, he picks a slate and says to the people of Illinois, 'elect these candidates because Bill Thompson is a Tammany Tiger.'

CLINNIN PLEADS NOT TO FATTEN 'TIGER'S WHEELS'

[Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 18.—Special.] Col. John V. Clinnin of Chicago spoke here tonight in the interest of the state ticket headed by Gov. John G. Ogleby for governor. Col. Clinnin tore into the Chicago Lundin-Thompson Tammany, branding it a menace to Illinois and warning citizens that the policy that has bankrupted Chicago will do the same for the state. Col. Len Small told the audience that Clinnin is a tawny hawk.

"We are confronted with a most serious crisis in the Republican ranks," Col. Clinnin said. "A band of ruthless politicians, under the leadership of a man of mystery, Fred Lundin of Chicago, have undertaken to capture our government. They seek to control the public offices and the Republican party of the state for the purpose of perfecting a state-wide Tammany for the benefit of the tiger whelps who follow the leadership of the tawny hawked Lundin."

Col. Clinnin went into the history of Lundin and Thompson in detail and pictured, step by step, the building of the Chicago Tammany.

"Chicago is a living example of the executive ability of Lundin-Thompson," he continued. "It cannot pay its debts. It is bankrupt and the banks of the city have refused it credit. A deficit of $10,000,000 confronts the taxpayers, who are now groaning under increased rental costs and high taxes."

Selling for "At Once Delivery"

SELLING to dealers for at once delivery, instead of taking orders six months ahead, might become permanent trade practice as the result of present dealer and banker attitude.

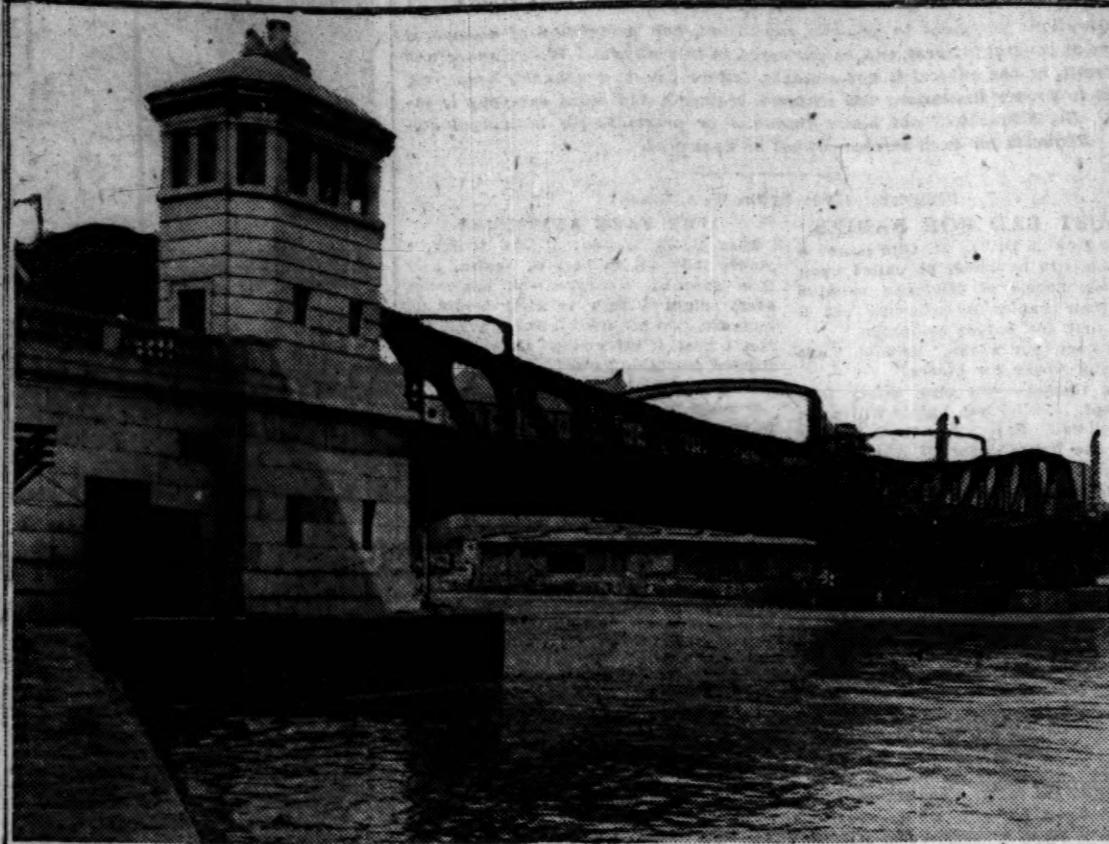

This would shift raw material buying and financing, forcing hundreds of producers and manufacturers to look several steps ahead in protection of their market with the dealer and consumer through the aid of advertising.

Marketing and distribution are undergoing changes—manufacturers, mail order houses, jobbers, branches, salesmen, dealers, and consumers are in revising relationship.

The counsel of this 15-year-old advertising organization will prove a valuable safeguard in any advertising undertaking.

HAROLD ICKES, MOOSE LEADER, SUPPORTS COX

Gives Views on Candidates' Qualifications.

Formal announcement from Harold Ickes, lately one of the Progressive party leaders, that he favors the election of Gov. Cox for the presidency, as forecast recently in THE TRIBUNE, was made last night.

Mr. Ickes, in his statement, said that he expects to support Gov. Cox. Already he has announced his support of Judge David F. Matchett for the Republican nomination for state's attorney and that he is supporting Gov. Lowden's policy and ticket in state fairs, as opposed to Thompsonson.

Harding for "Boss Control."

Mr. Ickes in his statement said: "What Senator Harding believed in is not party government, but boss control in the party." He based upon the Republican nominate as the Republicans hosts and deceives himself that when Senators Smoot and Watson and Judge Murray Crane, James Hemingway, and Col. Harvey met privately in a room in the Blackstone hotel at 2 o'clock in the morning to decide upon him as the candidate and to determine his policies, the Republican party was assembled together for solemn deliberation.

Ton Much for a Progressive.

"And this record and personality make it impossible for one who cherishes the memory of the Progressive party to support it. It is not a record of success and accomplishment, to support for president the man who defamed and vilified that party and declared that "when the Progressive came back into the Republican party they would have to come on their knees."

"How can a Progressive who was privileged to march ahead under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, the greatest man in his generation, be content to turn back and stumble along in the dark behind the banner of the man who called Theodore Roosevelt 'the Aaron Burr of the Republican party'?"

Cox Record Progressive.

"Gov. Cox's record is a distinctly progressive record. That record proves that he looks upon public office as an opportunity for public service. He is standing in this campaign upon what he has achieved along progressive lines for the public welfare."

"Holding as I do that my duties and obligations as a citizen are paramount to my duties and obligations as a party man I have concluded to support the Democratic national ticket in this campaign."

"I shall continue to affiliate with the Republican party, but I cannot in good conscience support for president a candidate who was not the real choice of his party and whom I regard as unworthy and unfit to be the chief executive of this nation by the tests of ability, public policies, official record and independence of character."

LOWDEN BRANDS CITY HALL 'VIEWS' SHAME TO STATE

Details Fight He Made on Mayor's Platform.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—The Thompson-Lundin attempt to elect a state ticket and secure control of the state government were mercilessly arraigned by Gov. Frank O. Lowden in his first public address of the campaign here this evening.

"This is not a factual contest. It is a fight being waged by those Republicans of Illinois who avow full allegiance to the principles expressed by the Republican party at the national convention in June against those who wish to substitute for the national platform another platform partly Socialistic and altogether demagogic. That platform is known as the Thompson platform.

Means Confiscation.

"It advocates the confiscation of property; it seeks to arouse class hatred; it imperils the title of every home owner to his home and of every farmer to his farm."

"Before our state convention met I learned that they proposed to force their platform upon the Republicans of Illinois. I resolved to fight this battle of the Republican party. I was assured that such opposition on my part would cost me the votes of seventeen delegates controlled by the Democratic campaign tactics."

"The Democratic party stands for the league of nations, and I believe that the league is an especially appealing issue to the women voters."

Senator Harrison Pleased.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the Democratic speakers' bureau, who was here today for a conference with Gov. Cox, shared the nominee's view with regard to the effectiveness of the League ratification on Democratic grounds.

"The Democratic party stands for the League of Nations, and I believe that the league is an especially appealing issue to the women voters."

Thankful to Both.

Mrs. Abbie Scott Baker, national chairman of the women's political party, led a delegation of women to the state house to publicly thank the governor for his effort in behalf of suffrage.

"The women should be grateful to Gov. Cox," said Mrs. Baker. "He has been a great help."

"Should they be more grateful to Gov. Cox than to Senator Harding?" was asked.

"Well, women might differ about that," she answered.

Tactics Used to Beat Him.

Gov. Lowden detailed the tactics used by the city hall to force its platform on the national convention, which repudiated it, and continued:

"The Lundin-Thompson forces had threatened that unless Thompson were elected, not only would they go against me, but that the police force, the fire department, their marching clubs, and all resources at their command, would be used to create an atmosphere which would make my nomination impossible."

"I owe it to the people to say that I think they made a promise as well as a threat. They have been true to their word."

Why Shayne Furs Are Superior Furs

Shayne Furs are never bought by the "job lot" method. Each pelt is subjected to the most careful examination by experts before it becomes a part of a garment bearing the Shayne label. It must be of the highest quality.

But the price of Shayne Furs is no higher than other good furs, as a visit to the Salon will quickly show.

The August Sale is now at its height. The sale discount of 20% offers a worth-while saving that fashionable Chicago is taking full advantage of.

VICTORY SEEN BY GOV. COX IN WOMEN'S VOTES

Says Mothers Favor League of Nations.

BY ROBERT B. SMITH.

Columbus, O., Aug. 18.—The enfranchisement of women greatly improves the chances of Democratic success in the November elections, in the opinion of Gov. James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee.

As a result of the action of the Tennessee legislature, the governor will emphasize the league of nations more strongly than ever as the paramount issue of the campaign, believing that his pledge to join the league will be especially appealing to the woman voters.

When he heard of the ratification by the Tennessee house, the governor called with this statement:

"The civilization of the world is saved. The mothers of America will stay the hand of war and repudiate those who trifle with a great principle. The action of the Tennessee legislature has another significance. It is an earnest of the Democratic policy to pay its platform obligations."

MR. COX IN REVERSE AGAIN.

We no longer think that Mr. Cox has set himself upon the league of nations with an explicit statement than he dissolves all confidence in ability to understand what he means by making a statement contradictory to the one accepted as revealing his position.

At the Ohio Democratic convention Tuesday he doubled again on his tracks by saying: "Our position is not unbending. We claim we can accept anything (in reservations) that interprets, that calls attention to the limitations of our constitution, that calls the attention of other nations that we will go thus far and no further."

A reasonable interpretation of that would put Mr. Cox in the center of the Republican camp. Mr. Wilson is unbending. The Democratic platform did not bend more than a fraction of an inch. Mr. Cox bends and unbends. He is in perfect accord with Mr. Wilson one day a week and in seeming accord with Senator Lodge another.

Republicans are perfidious and shameful one minute and another minute are proposing nothing with which Mr. Cox does not agree.

He says at one time that not to take the covenant as other nations have taken it would bring shame to the nation and he says at another time that the United States must indicate to other nations that it will go thus far and no further.

Mr. Cox makes such conflicting statements that it is impossible to follow him. If he were elected he might take any position and say it was in accord with a prelection promise. He may be as well-bred as any one.

Mr. Harding has said that if he is elected there will be an immediate and complete change in the foreign policy of the United States and that any covenant the country signs will not be the one Mr. Wilson presented to it.

That is a statement which can be understood and it evidently is meant.

RESTORING THE GUARD.

In spite of logic and the lessons of experience the United States refused to require military training for its citizens. We put our reliance upon a citizenry trained and accustomed to arms, but we refuse to train and accustom. We have established the principle of conscription to service, but we refuse to enforce preparation for service. We can and do compel a citizen to fight. We refuse to insist that he shall know how to fight.

For this inconsistency many thousands of our best died in France. But they are silent. Their comrades came back full of resentment for this or that injustice, but not for the great, injustice, which lay at the basis of all their failures and illus.

So we are back where we began on the old shabby and always inadequate basis of the volunteer system. We are back and we must make the best of it.

In Illinois the national guard, reorganized under the new federal law, must be reffilled through an appeal to the patriotism of our young men. But not wholly to their patriotism. The guard offers opportunities for physical training, for sports, for social good times, for an outing every year at the expense of the state. It will appeal chiefly perhaps to those having a taste for military things and it is such who make the best soldiers. But we are sure that the splendid records made by the Illinois guard regiments in the great war will appeal to the pride and emulation of the young manhood of Illinois. Many of the officers will be veterans tried in the fierce fires of actual warfare and their leadership ought to inspire our young men to enter their commands and perfect themselves in the first duty of citizenship, the defense of one's country.

LAND AND REVOLUTION.

In Russia bolshevism won power by subtilizing its own doctrine by giving the peasants land. The peasants have kept it and will keep it. If there is anything certain, this is certain.

Because the bolshevist régime, in spite of its internationalist and communist doctrines, has stood against foreign invasion and the recapture of land from the peasants, because, in fact, it has not represented, in these respects, its own theories, it has survived.

How about Poland? Before the war the nobles owned 40 per cent of the land in Russian Poland, the village communities about 44 per cent, and the crown 6 per cent. Of 7,000,000 peasants, 3,000,000 possessed no land.

Polish patriotism is resisting Russian invasion. But it is directed by the upper class. If the Russian invader promises land to the Polish peasant, will he accept the bolshevist régime as the Russian peasant did?

We suspect land hunger is stronger than the ideals of nationalist Poland, so passionately cherished by the Polish upper class. Will this class divest itself of land and distribute it among the peasants to sustain their loyalty? Is it too late to do so?

That may have much to do with the outcome of the present crisis. But suppose Poland is overrun by Russia and the bolshevist government makes peace with its people by distributing the land? What will be the eventual result? Will a population of private landholders sustain a bolshevist government indefinitely?

We think not. We believe that if in Russia and Poland bolshevism establishes a vast population of peasant landholders, bolshevism will commit suicide. There is no stronger impulse in mankind than that of independent landownership. Once put a man's feet on his own soil and you have created an individualist and no doctrine can prevail against him.

In Russia, we think, democracy is safe and will overthrow doctrinaire bolshevism and the communistic radicalism of the cities in due time. And though Red Russia may conquer the present régime in Poland, it must eventually go down before a Polish democracy founded in a landed peasantry.

In the Ukraine private ownership of land is the rock of resistance to bolshevism, and private ownership of land is the rock on which the Red menace will be wrecked.

NO TAMMANY IN ILLINOIS.

Thompson is endeavoring to convince downstate Republicans that Len Small, one of their own people, is the candidate for governor. The state knows that Small is merely the instrument by which Thompson and Lundin try to obtain control of the state.

Small is not a candidate on his own. He is a candidate for Thompson's purpose and Lundin's purpose. If Small were making a campaign for nomination on his own he might have Thompson's support. That support would be limited to the attempt to deliver Cook county to him.

Thompson is making the state campaign because he is running in the person of Small. He appears throughout the state as if he were the candidate running. That is recognition of the fact that he is the candidate. Small trails the procession over the state.

UNFORTUNATELY THERE IS NO SUCH SHIP.

(From a news dispatch.)

The passage by the Tennessee legislature of ratification of the suffrage amendment makes certain the federal enfranchisement of women, a result inevitable, we believe, in the evolution of our democracy.

The immediate effect in politics of this extension of the vote will be a matter of anxious speculation among the politicians, at least, until the results of the presidential poll are known. Meanwhile we shall have a great to do in the matter of tactics supposed to influence the new voters, and among these will be the claims of each party to the credit for bestowing the privilege. The Democrats seem to get great store by the fact that a Democratic state legislature gave the final necessary vote.

We do not think gratitude for favors received is very weighty with most of us, men or women, but if women's votes in November are to be much swayed by the measure of support given enfranchisement by the respective parties, we think the men said on that point by Democrats the better for their cause.

The amendment was submitted to the states by congress by a vote of 244 Republicans and 138 Democrats, 24 Republicans and 87 Democrats voting Nay. Ratification by the states has been by 26 Republicans and 8 Democratic.

THE BRITISH DRAW ASIDE.

A good deal of credibility is attached to the story from London that Great Britain intends to get out of European complications as quickly as possible. The British never could wholly isolate themselves off the edge of Europe, but they have a tradition of keeping out of as much trouble as could be localized on the continent. Even ten years ago British statesmen held to the doctrine that Balkan disturbances never should be allowed to become a concern of the British empire.

Mr. Cox makes such conflicting statements that it is impossible to follow him. If he were elected he might take any position and say it was in accord with a prelection promise. He may be as well-bred as any one.

Mr. Harding has said that if he is elected there will be an immediate and complete change in the foreign policy of the United States and that any covenant the country signs will not be the one Mr. Wilson presented to it.

COSTS VS. PRICES.

The increase of 12.5 per cent in express rates following closely upon the heels of the general increase in freight rates again seems to justify calling attention to the possible effect of such increases upon the cost of living. Manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers should understand that the use of these increases as an excuse for exorbitant prices to the consumer will be recognized and dealt with as evidence of willful profiteering.

The milk business offers an illustration of the possible use of such excuses for increased retail prices. It also offers an opportunity to explain to the public the comparatively minor effect which increased transportation costs should legitimately exert upon retail prices. Knowing this the consumer will be equipped to identify the profiteers and take such corrective action as desired, either by reducing demand or by legislation.

The new express rate schedule allows an advance of 20 per cent on milk. Chicago's milk supply comes from 15,000 farms, at an average of sixty miles from the city. The average increase in the cost of milk transportation has been figured out as 16.2 per cent per quart. If the milk distributors should base an advance of 1 cent per quart retail price upon the increased transportation rate they would be making a profit of .88¢ of a cent on each .162 expended for the new rate. That is approximately 500 per cent. Evidently it would be profiteering.

HARDING FAMILY FREE THIRTEEN CENTURIES OLD

Forbear Was Tory
Governor in 1775.

BY EYE WITNESS.

WILLIE H. COX, 1920: By the Tribune Company 1775, just before this got too hot to hold him—and before an "interesting event" in family—Warren Harding's great-great-grandfather said to his Mistress Amos Harding, "If I should be a boy and is given my present to him shall be a son, a bride, and saddle."

the (come again four times)—grandson of Warren Harding was his colony William Tryon, colonial governor sent over here from England for our better instruction in matters touching on and applying to the colonial commandment. Colonial accounts he seems to have been extremely hard boiled men and in the course of sixteen years in our midst made him as popular as a grand duke in a regiment, but if you look him in the Encyclopedia Britannica you will find him described as "tact and considerate." Reading further you come upon a similar inscription, "He was after he had served in thirteen of our impatient North Carolina forebears who were useful about taxes in his ballwick, seven of them and pardon me that approach to a fifty-five years did not specially endear him to the folk down south and he was referred to the New York area, ultimately doing a spacious job of sack and barn burning up Connecticut.

Weds London Heires.

He was quality—had married, as he was a captain in the First Guards, a London heiress with a sum of $20,000 (a Miss Wake), who to the Earl of Hillsborough, in his turn, was first commissary of trade and plantations and who just dripped with opulence for the family.

George Tryon made his home in his granddaughter, the ex-Mistress Harding, he had sons and saddles and bridles to burn, when the time came to deliver the senator outfit—the lady having good her part of the bargain by getting Amos with a boy—the government having beaten it to the stoop of war in New York Harbor, where he had cooped up for eleven months, the boy, his son, was sent to the "Tory safe. You can come out," he did, but without any christening presents for the little ones.

Mistress Amos, however, did not do on a technicality, but wove Tryon's name into her boy's name, as him George Tryon Harding. His name stuck, and there have been Tryon Hardings in Marion and new counties for a century.

Harding's Father Looks Back. Of the son of the Harding's father, George Tryon's father, a gentle old homespun physician, Dr. George Tryon Harding, I was telling you about the day. He is the grandson of Miss Amos' son.

We often heard my grandfather say to his doctor, "that this republican is a horse, saddle, and bridle, me, about the time he was to get me. Uncle Sam stepped in and the reins. He'd laugh about it.

He'd do a good job, he'd be proud of his name or the connection."

They are. That's one of these people say—but I notice they say it rather perkily. Just how well the Hardings are to their from "the tyrant" as the pamphleteers used to call him, dictated by the fact that a few years ago there were seven George Hardings at one time. Harding home held in the picnic grove in the lot of Blooming Grove, a few rods the site of the vanished farms in which Warren Harding was born. A Giant Is Laid Low

Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison saw an old friend yesterday—laid him low with twenty-five year old ax and wedge just dripped with opulence for the family.

George Tryon made his home in his granddaughter, the ex-Mistress Harding, he had sons and saddles and bridles to burn, when the time came to deliver the senator outfit—the lady having good her part of the bargain by getting Amos with a boy—the government having beaten it to the stoop of war in New York Harbor, where he had cooped up for eleven months, the boy, his son, was sent to the "Tory safe. You can come out," he did, but without any christening presents for the little ones.

Mistress Amos, however, did not do on a technicality, but wove Tryon's name into her boy's name, as him George Tryon Harding. His name stuck, and there have been Tryon Hardings in Marion and new counties for a century.

Harding's Father Looks Back. Of the son of the Harding's father, George Tryon's father, a gentle old homespun physician, Dr. George Tryon Harding, I was telling you about the day. He is the grandson of Miss Amos' son.

We often heard my grandfather say to his doctor, "that this republican is a horse, saddle, and bridle, me, about the time he was to get me. Uncle Sam stepped in and the reins. He'd laugh about it.

He'd do a good job, he'd be proud of his name or the connection."

They are. That's one of these people say—but I notice they say it rather perkily. Just how well the Hardings are to their from "the tyrant" as the pamphleteers used to call him, dictated by the fact that a few years ago there were seven George Hardings at one time. Harding home held in the picnic grove in the lot of Blooming Grove, a few rods the site of the vanished farms in which Warren Harding was born. The Harding stamp is so deep that bit of countryside that people speak of the grove, which is next the new schoolhouse, as Harding's grove. Those reunions are held and it has a point that cannot be ignored in any survey of the conditions and the men that made your nominees what they are—the point of it all. I say, is that it helps to clear away the grotesque legend lately taking shape that Harding and Cox are men of more or less humble and unrecorded stock, and you would think from some of the Sunday supplement biographies and the pictures going with them, that Warren Harding was his Hopkins' brother and the village gawk of no account.

Well, he wasn't. He was a well set up, fluent, earnest country boy of fine stock—none better.

In fact, the name Harding is one of the oldest in Anglo-Saxondom and some say you can trace the family back through thirteen centuries of English annals. In Saxon times the name was spelled Harodene, and if you sort of mumble the first two syllables of it and emphasize and nasalize the last—which is the way those changes comes to pass—you will have pretty near the sound of "Harding."

Of English Stock.

For centuries the Harding strain has been an unmixed English strain—if that's any comfort to you—except for a slight Dutch infusion, and one day the senator said to his father, "Why do the Van Kirks always send me their running advice?"

"My dear boy," said the doctor,

"don't you know that your dear mother was descended from the Van Kirks of Holland?"

It is one more of the striking parallels in the story of the ancestry and the careers of the two nominees that in the Cox family, as in the Hardings, the dominant strain in the American branch was colonial families and descendants of revolutionary soldiers and legislators.

With the living Hardings the line runs off into connections with the Jefferson Davises and the Alexander Stephenses of the Confederacy, but it would take a genealogical chart to make all that clear to you without driving you crazy, which would be a pity. Then, too, there is the old Col. Crawford connection that links the senator up with Col. Crawford whom Gen. Washington mourned when Crawford met his horrible death not many miles to the north of Marion.

Harding of Blue Blood.

The Hardings were of the blue blood, all right—the bluest of the blue and Christian, the senator's old friend, summed it all up when in speaking of the men who came into Ohio to breed a population that has produced an average of one president per decade since 1840—he said, "They weren't a peasant race. They were men of strong character, of great independence and of considerable education, and they made Ohio pivotal."

How they did that is one of the most interesting chapters in American political, and timely, too, for it tells you why Harding and Cox are today the nominees.

Student and Professor Are Closer At Illinois' Colleges

Elihu Root stated that in his opinion the best work is done by students in small colleges with an enrollment of five hundred or less. Many prominent educators have made similar statements.

There is no doubt that closer personal contact between the students and the faculty at Illinois' colleges results in much that is good. The professors have a better understanding of the student's capabilities and aptitudes. They can exercise individual guidance to better advantage. They can give advice to the student needing financial help. Students feel the effect of personal interest in their work.

Illinois parents and their sons and daughters of college age are fortunate in having many well equipped colleges located throughout the State. The undoubtedly advantages they offer and the completeness of their educational facilities will recommend them to those who desire a higher education.

Write to any of the colleges named below for information about any course in which you are interested. It will be cheerfully furnished.

ROOST IN TAXES RUINS CITY HALL SALOON ALIBI

receives $10,000,000 in Other Revenue.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

"The city is in some financial distress," explains the city hall master in his effort to get votes to support the state government and local governing agencies, "but you know—everybody knows—that the city is $7,000,000 in liquor revenue when dry wave enveloped the country."

The impression is given that because the loss of the saloon license fees to the state, the city has been compelled to live on script, and will finish the year with an estimated $5,000,000 deficit.

The fact is that the loss of saloon license fees has been made good by the general assembly.

They asked for $7,000,000 and they got $4,000,000. That was given for the general corporate purposes of the city. It was done by increasing the tax rate.

100 Per Cent Tax Boost.

Not discarding the view of the officer and taking a glance at the viewpoint of the property owner and tenant, who were denied a small pile is presented

now showing the increase in city tax between 1914 and 1919.

This increase has been more than twice that of 1914.

The jump was from a little more than $17,000,000 to more than $40,000,000. These figures relate to municipal functions, except the city hall will assert that this was not given for the corporate tax was not available for corporate purposes.

How Tax Was Divided.

An increase was given for all municipal purposes, except schools. The city, municipal tuberculosis, sanitation, and other taxes not included as well as the corporate fund.

This fund received a tax rate from $1.20 to $2.15 on a basis third valuation. That means the corporate fund received an increase of $10,470,085 on a perfect collection of taxes. In addition there was more to make a total increase between 1914 and 1919 of $12,946,845.

It is the opinion of the city hall that it gave the impression that the city broke because of the loss of saloon licenses. The fact is that taxes extended for the city have been increased $17,371,054 between 1914 and 1919.

Regardless of what purpose the tax has been used for, the property has been compelled to pay the tax.

CHAPMAN BURIAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 18.—Raymond Chapman, premier shortstop of the American league and star infielder of the Cleveland club, will be buried Friday morning. At the request of his family, the body will lie in state in St. Philomena's church, East Cleveland. The pallbearers will be announced tomorrow. Some of them, it is understood, were ushered at his weddin only a few months ago.

City Flags at Half Mast.

Chapman's death received official recognition from the city today, when flags of the city hall and courthouse were flying at half staff. It is probable the entire Cleveland team will be brought here from New York to attend the funeral.

It is scheduled to play in Boston Friday, and it would be possible to postpone the contest if play as part of a double header Monday.

President James C. Dunn and Manager Tris Speaker will decide on this tomorrow.

A large crowd of friends and admirers was at the depot when Chapman's body reached here. It was removed to the home of his wife's parents in the afternoon taken to the home of his wife's parents. Mrs. Chapman, accompanied by her parents, Manager Speaker, and Joe Wood of the Indians, and several others, was on the same train and went direct to her home.

"Chapman's" Parents Arrive Today.

James Johnson and J. R. Johnson, Chapman's uncles, arrived from Owensboro, Ky., but his parents of Herrin, Ill., will not arrive until tomorrow morning.

Hundreds of messages of condolence were received from all parts of the country. Gov. James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, and B. E. Johnson, president of the American league, Mr. Johnson will attend the funeral.

Five thousand men, women and children, tonight had contributed ten cents each to the "flower from a fan" fund, started by local paper. It has been decided to use about one-third of the contributions for a floral design, and the balance will be placed in another fund, which is being raised to erect a memorial for Chapman at League park.

NOTES OF THE SOX

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 18.—[SPECIAL]—Two more games here.

Albin Dahlin, a six footer, and a right handed pitcher, joined the Sox today. He came in from Erie, where he has been pitching in semi-pro company, with great success.

Today's was the sixth victory of the Mackmen, and the White Sox out of seventeen games. That is as many games as the tailenders have won from any team in the league this year, except the Red Sox.

Perkins was on first when Griffin hit a Texas leaguer to short left in the seventh and tried to go to third on it, but slipped and fell down half way. Jackson could not pick up the ball in time to get him before he crawled back to second safely.

Magistrate McQuade asserted.

PLAN HEADGEAR FOR BATSMEN AT OWNERS MEETING

New York, Aug. 18.—Introduction of headgear for batsmen is being considered by baseball club owners. Magistrate Francis K. McQuade, secretary-treasurer of the New York Giants, declared here today in commenting on the fatal injury received by Ray Chapman of the Cleveland Americans last Monday when hit in the head by a pitched ball.

Hisitarian impulse, quite as much as anxiety to protect the heavy financial investment in their star performers, has moved club interests to consider headgear as a desirable addition to players' protective apparatus, Magistrate McQuade asserted.

Ruth Finds Natural Style at Bat Best for Swatting Home

BY BABE RUTH.

(Copyright: By United News.)

I am a natural hitter. I found this out in the season of 1919, when I missed a lot of long blows by trying to play the "scientific" game at bat. Instead of attempting to drive batters into left or center, I should have used my natural swing, which pushes the ball over toward right field.

With Mrs. Ruth I went out to Finland, with think over my future to see what I was up to. The Red Sox record which I mainly did not have, was a record of twenty wins in a row. I tried to open up my record, but couldn't get it. I was only one thing to Ruth I went out to the winter to keep in training. So I would get my eye, I stuck to it, and was on the course to the Yankees.

begin to pop in the east, and rumors of all sorts. I wouldn't sell me, and I'd hear that he wanted to.

The sale to the Yankees was a price which I could not weigh in gold. Of course, mighty fine compliment, the red nose or something.

I try to pay my respects to the razz, not a receipt.

It was getting out of the box, not I, and I was not myself.

Agreeing with me, when I came out to the Yankees, I was almost sure first place men by injuries, and suffering mishaps to several other of their foremost athletes.

The American team, the Olympic track and field championships had to watch Canada, Italy, Sweden, and Finland capture the four final events which were contested.

But while the Yankees were deprived of the glory of butting on in their flag hoisted in token of a victory, the Scotch pastime of the stadium was the extra dry nineteen.

Canada asserted itself in gathering of the minor places to lead all in American total scoring for the day.

The Americans captured 32 points, while 18, and Finland 12 for the day.

THOMSON SETS WORLD MARK.

The Americans derived considerable.

Earl Thomson, the great English college hurdler, set a new world and Olympic mark of 9.44-5 in the 100 meter hurdles. Thomson competed for Canada. Olympic rules did not permit his competing for America, as he wished.

in three qualifying events which he conducted today in addition to the final, and he had to have, with the injuries, assure further action to the point total tomorrow.

Interest marked the final in the 110 meter hurdles due to men's clash with the American, Harold Barron, Fred Murray and Walker Smith.

Walker Smith.

Thomson lived up to his formidable reputation by finishing to the finish line ahead of Barron of Philadelphia, and placed third, inches behind next. Next came Wilson of New York, who was wrongly named as "Riddle" in yesterday's semi-final. The Chicago leaper, injured a slight muscle two days in addition to Smith's "comeback" in the hurdles, the Americans were gladdened by the re-appearance of Joe Ray of Chicago, America's most reliable and speedy entrant for 1,500 meters, who pulled a tendon only two days ago that it was out for good.

Ray won his heat in the 1,500 meters, but was evidently bothered him some, but not enough to give any other instant a chance to win the heat.

Barron and Plant on Sidelines.

But while these two athletes were testing the strength of the team by return to something like form, Americans were mourning the loss of Butler, everywhere regarded as a point winner in the broad jump.

of William Plant of New York, a major favorite in the 10,000 meter.

Finals in these events were held in these two stars on the sidelines, and winning the jump and stay.

Plant was kept out by a further strain gathered when Matt McGrath, world record holder, sprained his knee in practice, and barely managed to place fifth in the qualifying trials of the hammer throw. Should a injury grow worse, it may prevent competition in the final tomorrow.

McDonald Sprains Finger.

Pat McDonald, McGrath's weight

rowing colleague and now member of the New York police force, had sprained finger which reduced him to fourth place, although he won the heat in the 1912 Olympic with a much steeper toas than Porkka of Finland, believed in winning today.

Porkka won the event with 14.81 meters (4 feet 11-1/2 inches). Niklander, Finland, was second with his distance of 14.15 meters, made yesterday qualifying under the Olympic rules to count for final places. The athlete does not surpass the mark in the final. McDonald got his place in the final in the same way.

Hall Walks to Victory.

The Italian, was three-quarters of a lap ahead of J. B. Pearson of New York, and C. taking the 10,000 walk. The leader of the race was strung away behind a series of blunders being lapped more than once. Pearson started strongly, and at the end of the fifth lap set the pace and ended the winner, with the field.

The Italian, a debonair, smiling looking fellow, gradually made his way toward the leader, and on the last lap, and passed Pearson in the fifth lap, three-quarters of distance. Frigerio led by ninety.

At the finish excited Italian, who rushed forward and kissed him.

Weight Stars Attraction.

The American giants in the weight were the center of interest to Europe the center of New York policemen and western youths hurriedly. Pat Ryan of Louisville, New York, led the qualification.

Frigerio led by ninety.

After Frigerio won the 110 meter hurdles, it was found that had been made to provide a Canadian flag for use in hoisting to the stadium flagpole in case an athlete of that country should win a first, and after a hurried conference the union jack was run up instead.

When a picture is live and snappy, has some good comedy, a few dramatic situations that are real and appealing, a good looking boy and heroine, and a supporting cast that knows what to do, when it's pretty sure to go well. Being possessed of all these admirable qualities, "Going Some" will undoubtedly prove popular.

The story, written by Red Beach, utilizes east and west, Indian, and cowboy. Its principal event is a footrace in which far more is at stake than most of those interested participants and observers realize.

Most of the action takes place in the west, which gives you the good old western scenery and introduces you to Miss Gallagher, hard-boiled, big hearted woman ranch owner, death on run, and all the trimmings for you. When an iron hand she rules the "boys" who labor for her and she regards with scorn and suspicion the occupants of the next ranch, the owner of which is a beautiful Mrs. Keap.

There is an air of mystery about the story, and the audience admires her fast—for cocktail hour is always observed and the adjoining ranch house is full-to-overflowing with guests who drink and smoke and spoon shamelessly.

When Mr. Keap arrives—but again I stop before I talk too much.

Nice, lively, well balanced picture "Going Some"!

BY CORINNE LOWE,
NEW YORK.—Special Correspondence.—A dollar a collar, a present mode school, what makes you come so soon? We might ask this in the presence of many a late wrap and suit coat. For the collar does come so soon. This is the reason the collar, which we are so passionately addicted often begin away down on the shoulder, so that the accessory has the air of a bashful suitor, afraid to come near the object of his attentions. We see here in this charming suit of white faille silk embroidered in brown the effect of one of these high but distant collars.

"HOGGING DOWN"
CORN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

If any feeder is doubtful about the value of "hogging down" corn he will be interested in the experience of Lawrence Brown, a farmer of Fayette county, Ind. In feeding hogs last fall he kept a record of the entire project and discovered some valuable facts.

At the time of his experiment at the university were interested in his demonstration and have made a report of the test as a guide to others who are in doubt about the "hogging down" scheme.

Mr. Brown turned forty-eight hogs into five acres of corn and soy beans the middle of September, the report says. Their average weight was 131 pounds. Twenty-eight days later they averaged 212 pounds, an average daily gain of 2.8 pounds. It took only eight bushels of corn to make 100 pounds of gain.

"I could hardly believe my hogs had made such gains at first," Mr. Brown said. "I weighed every one of them a second time to make sure. There had been no error and checked over my figures. There was no mistake. They had gained 2.8 pounds a day while they were harvesting the corn and beans."

I believe one reason they made such good gains was because I had them large and growthy, but not fat, when they went into the field. Then I accustomed them gradually to a ration of new corn. About ten days before they were turned in I began feeding an ear apiece of the new corn. I

When I was 15 years old I was introduced to the Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley. I took a volume of his poems with me, and before I left asked him if he would write something in it. He offered to write a verse of any poem of his that I wanted. In my excitement I said that I preferred a verse from "Little Boy Blue." He looked rather surprised for a moment, and then I remembered that the poem what written by Eugene Field.

City Material Helps Boost Campaign.

Patrick Arnd, attorney for the estate of the late James Moloney, said yesterday that the family of the Moloney Beiting company, 130 North Franklin street, would contest Mr. Moloney's will unless Mrs. Madelaine Barker of New York and Mrs. Theodore A. Backe of Brooklyn, named as beneficiaries, withdraw their claims to any share in the $600,000 estate. The attorney has told the beneficiaries that the will must be in his hands this week.

Admits Using City Property.

Two electricians, at least one of whom is a city employee, worked all of Tuesday and yesterday putting in the mayor's latest type of horns. They took materials from a motor truck parked in front of the headquarters.

The license number of the truck was 2837 Illinois. At the vehicle bureau this license was said to belong to a city truck assigned to the electrical bureau.

City Electrician William G. Keith admitted that city materials were used in putting in the devices.

"The men are not paid by the city," he said. "They are working for an electrical contractor, named George Newberry, who is having them do this."

They were shy a few steel bands to attach the cross arms and instead of putting them in, they had them sent over from the city warehouse.

Adelman Threatens Horns.

But Mayor Thompson may never have a chance to sit within the headquarters and vie with the newsmen in selling his political wares.

Ald. Thomas O. Wallace gave the mayor's Randolph street device the once over yesterday, after returning to the city hall with the following declaration of war:

"At the next city council meeting Aug. 24—I will introduce an order on the commissioner of public works directing him to enforce the city ordinances which prohibits the use of lampposts for other than municipal purpose."

S. K. HEALY SUES
CITY FOR $10,000;
REVEALED

Stephen K. Healy, former captain of police, who while in charge of the Stanton avenue district in August, 1917, confessed to participating in vice bribes and implicated former Chief of Police Healy, filed a $10,000 suit against the city yesterday.

Only the principle of the suit was filed in Superior court, but Healy stated last night that the action was based on back pay.

The prince will arrive in Chicago on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad at 9 o'clock today. He will be met by a delegation of Chicago Roumanians, but, because of his incognito, he will not be entertained lavishly. He will be the guest of honor at a supper night at the Chicago club, to be given by J. Ogden Armour, Walter C. Brewster, former minister to the Balkans; Cyrus H. McCormick, Charles J. Vopicka, United States minister to Roumania, and a number of other prominent men.

Prince Carol will visit Chicago industrial and commercial establishments on Friday, and will leave on that night for New York. He will sail for Europe on Aug. 27 on the Aquitania.

OFFER REWARD
FOR ASSASSIN
OF KENOSHA MAN

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 18.—(Special)—A price was set today on the head of the assassin of Charles Pacini, wealthy theater man, when Chief of Police Owen O'Farrell, of Kenosha, paid $500 for information which would lead to the arrest and conviction of the player.

It was announced that the three men who have been sought in connection with the case have all been located.

One is in Waukegan, another wired to the chief from Toronto that he would come to Kenosha any time he is wanted, and the third is in Kenosha, taking with officials today.

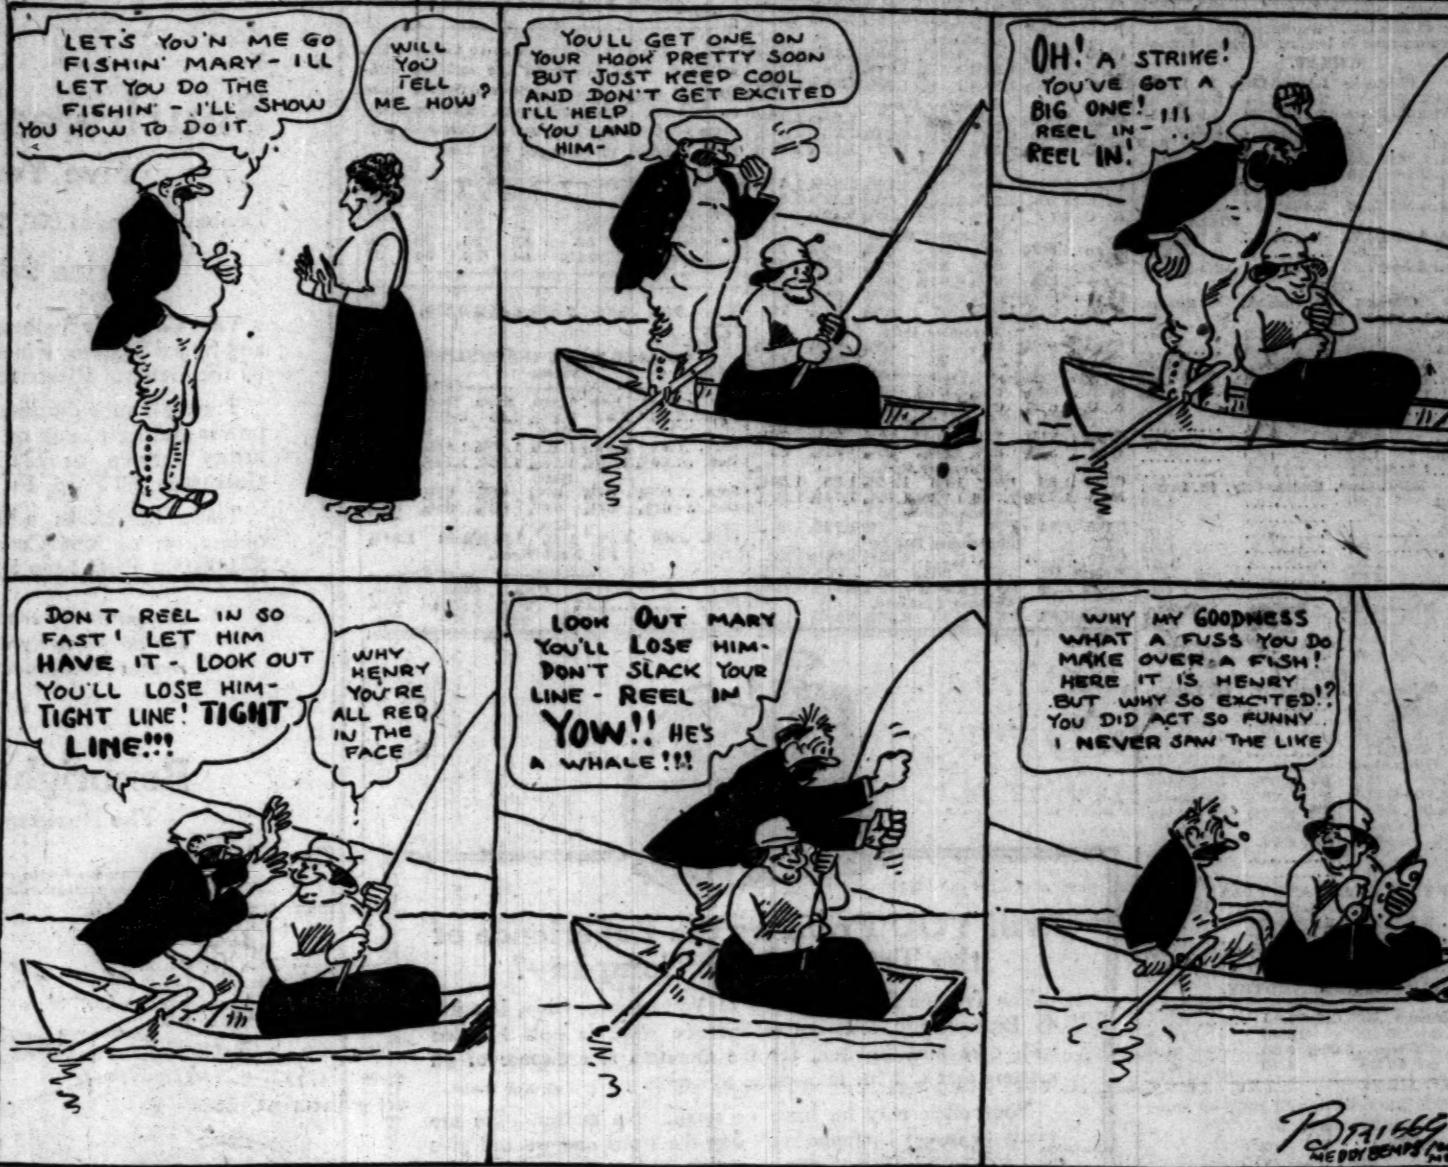

The police are sifted contradictory stories. Mrs. Anna Keefe, living next door to the garage, claimed an automobile carried the men from the scene of the murder. Others who were near just after the crime declare there were no traces of a car and that a man was seen skulking down Maiden lane.

Complaints that the police are not investigating the case brought a reply from the governor that he will order an investigation if such action is warranted.

POLICE MERIT
LIST DISCARDED;

Leaders Lose Chance
for Promotion.

Police circles are buzzing with assertions that in cancelling an eligible list of ninety-nine names for sergeants of police, the city civil service commission played politics to the injury of the ten patrolmen who headed the list.

Chief of Police Garrity asked the commission to authorize the promotion of ten patrolmen to sergeants. He started the ball rolling on Aug. 11 by requesting the mayor, departmental secretary to certify the names of the ten patrolmen who might be taken care of on the list, which will be posted after the new examination for Aug. 20.

Seventh on the cancelled list was Patrolman James J. Dineen, 4412 Emerald avenue, who served in France as a major in the 136th Infantry.

"It was simply a political double cross," one of the patrolmen affected said yesterday. "The commission decided to get rid of us so that other patrolmen might be taken care of on the list, which will be posted after the new examination."

"This list was three and one half years old," said Harry Wallace, secretary of the commission.

"The commission may cancel any list more than two years old. Our records show that the order of cancellation was entered August 12 and Chief Garrity's request for more sergeants did not reach us until August 18."

$31 Contributed to Aid
Widow of Naval Hero

Contributions totaling $31 were received yesterday by the Tribune for the widow and two children of Charley Conover, 5130 Indiana avenue, the wounded naval wireless operator who was killed by a freight train at Los Angeles, Cal., while looking for work in the harvest fields.

A check for $25 was received from the Naval post of the American Legion, No. 72, as a foundation upon which to build a fund to benefit the family of the hero.

A sum of $6 was received from Ernest Guban, manager of the North Shore Tire and Vulcanizing company, and another of $1 came from an anonymous contributor who wished it were $100 to apply on a fund which I trust you will sponsor to aid Mrs. Conover in bringing the body of her husband home.

Army Machine Gun Auto
Stolen in Chicago

Among the thirteen automobiles reported stolen yesterday was an army machine gun truck which had been seen during the world war with the 1st division. The truck, No. 193, was used for recruiting purposes, carrying in numbers and the words "Enlist in the Eighth Infantry." It was taken from in front of the White City entrance gates, where the 1st division regular army circus will be held.

Today's Question.
How did you get the money to attend your first circus?

Where Asked.
On Dearborn street between Randolph and Lake streets.

The Answers.

John S. Napon, 4519 Wallace street, detective sergeant—I crawled under a tent more than twenty years ago to attend my first circus. The circus I ever attended where I paid money I earned the necessary by distributing hand bills around our neighborhood here in Chicago.

Henry Well, 404 Bowen avenue, real estate dealer—I got the money from Dad to go to the first circus I ever attended, but I had to earn it by cutting the grass and tending to several other chores about the old place. I sure did enjoy it, too.

J. W. Graham, 2606 East Seventy-sixth street, engineer—I carried water half a day in Sharon, Pa., to earn my money and my family came away from the lot and I had to get the money from my old Dad. You can bet I enjoyed that circus once. I thought the elephant never would get enough water.

Leodru Stiffler, 735 North Cass street, dancer—I earned the money to go to my first circus. It was a long time ago and I did chores about our home for it. I was sore too, when I found that a number of my playmates had gotten the money by carrying in buckets of water for the well known elephant.

Epiphraim A. Byrne, 5490 Princeton avenue, shaver—I carried up shavers, wood, and bottles to earn the money necessary to get into my first circus. That was about twenty years ago and the circus showed at Twentieth and Wentworth. I worked two or three days to get that money.

Local interest in the reported rejuvenating effect of gland transplants in the human body was revived yesterday when Dr. J. R. Brinkley of Milford, Mass., arrived in town. This physician has experimented extensively in the treatment and put into practice in numerous cases.

He uses goat glands.

J. J. Tobias, chancellor of the Chicago Law school, has been under treatment and yesterday gave an enthusiastic account of the results telling the Tribune that "a general rejuvenation, a rebuilding of my whole central nervous system, has resulted from this operation, I am fifteen years younger. I don't get tired as I used to. My eyes are better. I find I can outwalk men and women of 25. Why, my finger nails have even lost the brittleness which comes with old age."

Some medical authorities, while granting that good effects have been shown from these transplants, contend that the effects are transitory.

On the other hand, a recent transplant of an older animal to a human, they say, cannot be permanently successful.

However, Dr. Brinkley is confident of his method and has endorsements from a number of well known patients.

Wooed Second Bride.

Knowing a reception committee was waiting for him in the Missouri city, Norman arrived there, it is alleged, as J. D. Davis, and under that name laid siege to the heart of Miss Pearl Yarnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Yarnell. But realizing marriages were expensive propositions, Mr. "Davis" is alleged to have stepped out and cashed a check for $1,350 just before the ceremony. On June 2 he and Miss Yarnell went to East St. Louis and were married. Her mother accompanied them.

Then all three came to Chicago and obtained a room at 5716 South Park avenue.

Army Deserter Points to Peters as Slayer.

A confession implicating Private George C. Peters in the slaying of Mrs. Maude Lucille Moss, wife of Capt. Leroy H. Moss, at Camp Grant on the night of June 15 was made yesterday at Madison, Wis., by Private Lester Van Tassel, a deserter.

Van Tassel confessed that he, Peters and two civilian friends of the latter were all intoxicated from drinking beer at the time the three shots were fired after the speeding automobile in which Mrs. Moss was riding with a party of friends. He declared he was lying beside the road, ill from the effects of the alcohol, when Peters and his companions, one of whom had a revolver, walked down the road a few minutes before the shots were heard.

Considerable doubt was cast upon the confession. The authorities in Madison, Wis., and Camp Grant, the home town of Private Van Tassel, believe the soldier is insane. Camp Grant authorities and Rockford civil authorities are placing little faith in the stories told by Van Tassel. He has told several conflicting stories, but says his confession is the right one.

Peters' Alibi Questioned.

Peters was arrested a week after the shooting at Jefferson Junction, Wis., and taken back to Camp Grant, but was cleared of suspicion when he gave a straightforward account of his whereabouts the night of the slaying. His story is in variance with the confession made by Van Tassel, who accompanied Peters in his flight as far as Jefferson Junction.

Mrs. Moss, a daughter of Col. B. J. Arnold of Chicago, was asleep in the automobile when shot. She was riding on the rear seat between Capt. Leroy H. Moss and another woman when the bullet entered her head just back of the right ear. Death was almost instantaneous.

Dr. J. J. Tobias, chancellor of the Chicago Law school, has been under treatment and yesterday gave an enthusiastic account of the results telling the Tribune that "a general rejuvenation, a rebuilding of my whole central nervous system, has resulted from this operation, I am fifteen years younger. I don't get tired as I used to. My eyes are better. I find I can outwalk men and women of 25. Why, my finger nails have even lost the brittleness which comes with old age."

However, Dr. Brinkley is confident of his method and has endorsements from a number of well known patients.

"Davis" kept talking about the dirty trick Capt. Moss had played on him. A short time later Peters and two men in civilian clothes, friends of whom he had met on the road, walked down the road. I remained behind, because the extract had made me ill.

A machine passed. All was still. A few minutes later a second machine passed in the direction of Peters and his two pals. I heard three shots.

"I fell asleep. When morning came, I was lying on the ground.

"I asked Peters about the shooting, but he was mean, and refused to talk about the affair."

HOLDS TALKING MACHINE FOR RENT; JAILED

When Joseph Gasperik gets out of the county jail this morning on a $15,000 bond he will have the pleasure of playing John Heinen's talking machine until the September grand jury meets to consider a charge of larceny against him for seizing the said violin.

Gasperik, who conducts a grocery on 5358 Cottage Grove avenue, and is married to a woman $75,000, owns an apartment building in Burnside. Heinen, one of his tenants, moved out a few days ago still owing Gasperik $25 back rent. Gasperik seized the talking machine pending payment. Heinen had him arrested on a charge of larceny. The case came up before Judge Leo J. Doyle in the Superior Court yesterday.

"Give him back the talking machine," ordered the court.

"I will, your honor, as soon as he pays me the money he owes me," Gasperik replied.

"I hold you to the grand jury on $15,000 bail," ordered the court.

WHEAT HIGHER; EXPORTERS BUY; LONGS SELL CORN

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

Bearish news counted strongly in favor of lower prices for coarse grains. With cotton, stocks, sugar, and tobacco down, the last being reported by New York as off 10¢ a pound in a few days, with the market at $2,000,000,000 basis for 50¢ a day, there was a disposition on the part of the trade to back away from the long side.

The crops showed grain prices at around the inside, with corn 20¢ higher and oats 10¢ lower. Wheat cut losses from corn and oats, advanced and closed 10¢ higher on the day with cash up 20¢, but 10¢ off 50¢ a day.

Buyers of wheat futures by the sea-board, combined with light offerings, less hedging and higher cash prices in all markets, made for a stronger market. Reopening of the trading in wheat futures at Winnipeg at $1.65 for October was not as high as expected, but a 7¢ advance from the low point induced covering by local shorts and checked hedging sales.

Heavy Selling Breaks Corn.

With the start outside trade and the general search mentioned of the pit element it took little selling to start corn values down. The feature was the selling of around 750,000 bushels from Thompson & McMillan, attributed to a leading eastern professional, which was mainly responsible for the break to the low point of the day, and to 40¢ under the early top. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with a heavy under-ton.

Scattered rains fall in Kansas and Nebraska, and the forecast was for unsettled weather. This had some effect on local sentiment, as drought reports have been a factor in giving the market strength. The government's weekly weather and crop report was construed as bullish, but was without effect.

Trading on corn was very local, the fluctuations being a reflection of those in corn, and the finish was within 4¢ of the bottom.

Buying of around 200,000 bushels September by houses that usually not for export was attributed as against sales abroad, but failed to have much effect on futures, which closed weak and lower.

Demand for barley was slow and prices declined 10¢ for the poorer kinds, while choice was unchanged.

Price follow.

Provisions received the bulk of their support from shorts, who took the offerings early and held prices up. Selling later on the break in hogs and corn carried prices down to the inside, where they closed. It was a slow market throughout, with losses of 10¢ on one

CASH·GRAIN N E W S

Shipping sales of cash grain at Chicago Wednesday were 40,000 bu corn and 100,000 bu oats.

Export business in wheat is being greatly helped by the lack of country offerings. The corn crop is the largest ever, and the oats crop, with the advance last week, was around $1.65 at the last and No. 2 market.

Prices were 20¢ higher and 10¢ lower. Corn was 20¢ higher and oats 10¢ higher, while Peoria was 20¢ lower. Cash oats sold mainly unchanged prices. No white wheat 50¢ higher, 50¢ lower. Barley 10¢ higher over the last. Receipts, 170 cars.
